Kibbles and Series List

The Kibbles and Series indexes have been combined into one index. This is where you'll find info on where your favorite movies came from—literary, theatrical, cartoon, and television adaptations to name a few, as well as the behind the scenes talents that make movies possible, such as producers and special effects wizards. Another important feature of this index is the quality check it provides with categories like Woofs!, 4 Bones, and Top Grossing Films by year. This index also provides information on recurring characters like James Bond, Jack Ryan, or Mike Hammer, as well as notable screen partnerships. Some examples include Abbott & Costello, Hope & Crosby, and De Niro & Scorsese. A tipped triangle denotes a three-bone or higher rating The categories are as follows, with an asterisk (*) denoting a new category:

Awards Index

The Awards Index lists films honored (or dishonored, in some cases) by nine national and international award bodies, representing over 100 categories of recognition. This information can also be found in the reviews, following the credits. Only features available on video and reviewed in the main section are listed in this index; movies not yet released on video are not covered here. As award-winning and nominated films find their way to video, they will be added to the review section and covered in this index. Nominations are once again covered in this index; they are not covered in the individual reviews. The awards covered include:

Academy Awards
British Academy of Film and Television Arts
Directors Guild of America
Golden Globe
Golden Raspberries
Independent Spirit Awards
National Film Registry
Screen Actors Guild Awards
Writers Guild of America

Cast Index

The Cast Index provides a complete videography for cast members with more than one appearance on video. The listings for the actor names follow an alphabetical sort by last name (although the names appear in a first name-last name format). The videographies are listed chronologically, from most recent film to earliest appearance, making it easier to trace the development of your favorite actor's career. When a cast member appears in more than one film in the same year, these movies are listed alphabetically within the year. A (V) beside a movie title indicates voice-only work, while an (N) indicates narrator duties.
